

Child's crochet cardigan

A chunky one-piece cardigan worked in 'up-and-down' stitch, rows of alternating sc and dc, with sc worked into dc of the row below and vice versa. Ribbing is in alternating FPDC/BPDC. Sleeves are worked directly off the body, decreasing every few rows to the wrist. Only the shoulders are sewn, and may be crocheted or whip-stitched together as preferred.

the pattern refers to the US sc and dc, known as dc and tr respectively in the UK
